"Thank you for visiting us"

About 30 people turned out Saturday for the Greenwood Historical Society's annual "visit" with some departed residents at the Mt. Abram Cemetery in Locke's Mills. Among the ghosts of Greenwood past were Moses Cummings and his daughter, Nettie Cummings Maxim, played by Butch Fuller and Julia Bennett, respectively. Each told the story of their lives and how they fit in with local history. Moses Cummings served in the Civil War and later returned home to be a farmer. Maxim married and had children, then discovered photography. She became a prolific photographer until her untimely death at 34 from diphtheria. The GHS has all of her photos at its building on Route 26 in Locke's Mills. Here, Cummings listens next to his grave marker as his "daughter" holds her camera and describes her work. Other ghosts included railroad station agent King Bartlett and constable/tax collector Jason Bennett. (Aloisio photo)

LePage, MDOT talk; Savages get signs

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Black Diamond Steakhouse in Bethel was slated to get four temporary MDOT signs by today (Thursday) to advertise the business until permanent ones can be obtained from the town.

Restaurant owner Rick Savage said Monday that by the order of Gov. Paul LePage, the Maine Department of Transportation had been directed to install four directional signs on state roads in Bethel to point the way to Savage's Steakhouse on the Sunday River Road.

Savage and his co-owner brother, Ron, have been critical of the timeline for the installation of new permanent signs by the town following the town meeting approval last month of new sign standards.

For the past decade roadside signs on state routes in Bethel have been administered by the town under a memorandum of understanding between MDOT and Bethel. As a result, Bethel is allowed to create an alternative to state standards for roadside directional signage.

According to Ron Savage, after the town vote last month he called the town office to get a permit for a directional sign, but was told the permits hadn't yet been written.

However, with the summer season underway,

Savage said his business couldn't wait. The brothers put up two of their own temporary signs on Route 2.

Then last week the town filed a civil lawsuit against the Savages, accusing them of multiple violations of the town sign ordinance dating back to March of 2012.

The Savages have acknowledged they posted temporary signs, but denied violating any other municipal sign ordinance.

On Monday the Citizen contacted the governor's office about Savage's statement that LePage had approved state signage, and spokesperson Adrienne Bennett said she would check with MDOT.

On Tuesday MDOT spokesman Ted Talbot called the newspaper. He said that at the direction of MDOT Commissioner David Bernhardt four state signs, approximately 4 feet by 8 inches, would be placed on state routes in Bethel.

They are to be installed near Davis Park; near Mahosuc Realty on the Parkway; and on Route 2 near the Sunday River Road, he said.

Talbot said Rick Savage has been in touch with MDOT about the signs issue "quite often - and I do mean quite often."

He said Bernhardt and

Local towns get their state revenue sharing estimates

By ALISON ALOISIO

As the Maine Legislature this spring considered Gov. Paul LePage's proposal to suspend municipal revenue sharing in his proposed biennial budget, local towns were placed in the position of guessing what might happen and factoring that uncertainty into their own budgets.

Some figured on getting nothing, while others planned on the full amount but made other contingency plans.

Now that the Legislature has approved a budget, the towns are finding out how accurate their crystal-ball gazing has been.

By state law 5 percent of all sales tax revenue is distributed among Maine towns according to a formula that factors in tax burden and population.

In Bethel, Town Manager Jim Doar recommended to selectmen during spring budget-building that the town plan on receiving the full amount (an estimated $115,000) from the state. But he also recommended that they not use money from the town's undesignated fund balance to lower the tax rate, as has been done in past years, in order to provide a financial safety net.

If Bethel did not receive state funds in FY'14, he said, the town could safely absorb the shortfall.

But instead taxpayers voted at town meeting to use $250,000 from the undesignated account to lower taxes in FY'14.

Doar has now learned that Bethel will receive an estimated $84,552 in revenue sharing, down from the $115,000 estimate.

That would have worked with his original plan. But, he said last week, "I didn't anticipate so much money being used from the undesignated balance. That will make cash tight this year and leave nothing to buy down the tax rate next year."

At the end of FY'12 there was $1.1 million in the undesignated account, Doar said, and $258,000 was used in FY'13 to lower the tax rate.

In FY'13 the town received $116,135 in revenue sharing.

In Greenwood Town Manager Kim Sparks and selectmen had planned on receiving nothing in revenue sharing, compared to $43,254 they got last year.

Now estimates show an estimated $28,000 will go to Greenwood. Sparks said last week it will be applied toward tax reduction.

In Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield just about hit the figure on the nose with his estimate. "We planned on $40,000.00 and will receive $38,634.41," he said last week. "Not too bad."

Last year the town received $55,499.

In other area towns, Andover is projected to receive $26,303 compared to $36,517 last year, and Gilead $9,755 compared to $15,620, according to the state treasurer's website.

Newry is projected to receive $6,637 compared to $10,671.

Projections for towns are available at http://www.maine.gov/treasurer/revenue\_sharing/projections.html.

Andro River trek offers new activities

By CHERRI CROCKETT

What could possibly be better than climbing into your kayak or canoe and floating down the Androscoggin River on a bright sunny day this summer with members of the Androscoggin Watershed Council and other paddle enthusiasts?

Registration is still open for the 2013 Source to the Sea Trek, which begins Friday, July 12 with an evening paddle through the Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge in Errol, New Hampshire and will finish on Aug. 10 in Brunswick.

Go to <http://arwc.camp7.org> and sign up for one or more of the 18 paddles taking place along the 170-mile journey of the Androscoggin River over the next month.

This year the theme is focusing on "Connecting People, Communities and Cultivating Healthy Lifestyles."

Some highlights include new after-hours paddles to help the busy working person enjoy the river, tai chi, yoga, gourmet potluck, hiking, a kid's day, cook-outs and possibly a paddleboard clinic.

As the trekkers make their way downriver to Bethel, they will also pick up some popular paddlers. Maine Adaptive Sports will be joining them once again for a day of fun on the water.

MAS has been a part of the event for the past couple of years, enjoying paddling from Bethel to Hanover, speeding through the rips at Newry Corner, where the Bear River dumps into the river, and sighting several bald eagles along the way.

Also new this year will be a cookout sponsored by the River Valley Healthy Communities Coalition at the Rumford launch behind McDonald's following the July 25 afternoon paddle from Hanover.

"We're really excited about having a presence on the river that day," said Sandy Witas, program coordinator for RVHCC. "And, even more excited to be able to offer a healthy meal at the end of the paddle."

New Bethel bait and tackle shop has that, and more

By ALISON ALOISIO

When they opened Bethel Bait Tackle and More last month, Jeremy Fredette and Sarah Lane hoped to fill what they saw as a gap in local services.

Judging by the response they describe, they've succeeded.

The new business, located on Mechanic Street, offers just what the name describes - fishing bait and tackle, guns and ammunition and a variety of other sporting goods and camping items, as well as fresh seafood. It will also serve as a game tagging station.

Fredette has background and experience in all of those areas.

"I always hunted and fished," he said. He also spent time in his youth at his family's second home in Pemaquid, where his friends - now fishermen and lobstermen - still live and provide him with a steady stream of seafood through a local co-op.

Fredette, who also owns Western Maine Roofing and Siding, realized people in the Bethel area had to travel a half hour or so for some of those items or services.

He and Lane decided to try to offer as many as they could in one shop.

Hunting and fishing are part of the western Maine

OUR CHOSEN FIVE

To the Editor:

I realize that our Bethel Selectmen have a difficult job, however, I think they should honor the petitions submitted to them and the intent of them. Most of the petitions are written to place on a warrant on upcoming Town Meetings for a popular vote by the town voters.

Maine legislators love to put out Bond issues for popular vote as it lets them off the hook for accountability of spending. Instead, our "Chosen Five" selectmen are guessing what the majority of the voters of Bethel may or may not want. Why not let the voters decide by popular vote at the Town Meeting?

In 2012 a Sign Ordinance petition was submitted to be voted on and instead of this, we got to vote on whether to spend $10,000 to redo the old one. It cost $13,000 and only the future will prove this to be wise. The dog park and basketball court issues have once again been handled differently by the "Chosen Five" than intended. The citizens of Bethel want to vote on these issues rather than to have our controversial issues decided on by well-intended selectmen. Be reminded that it takes a vote of 3 to 2 on the board for a decision. I urge our selectmen to put referendum petitions as worded out to vote in the future.

SAM CHAPMAN: UNFORGETTABLE

To the Editor:

Anyone who knew Sam Chapman well is aware of a very long, deep connection he had with Rolly York, myself and our family. Although I could go on and on... and on, with personal memories of Sam, my hope instead is to share from a perspective where many of you who knew him, who loved him, may relate, and where those of you who didn't, may learn a little about him. Sam touched countless lives throughout his 60 years, and although it feels as though each and every person who knew him has their own, unique "Sammy History," at the same time, many of those histories have intertwined, connecting many of us in so many ways.

After people pass, it sometimes seems as though that person is suddenly elevated to a "legendary" status in the memories of those left behind. If we're fortunate, however, if we pay attention to the moments, we sometimes are aware that we're in the presence of what constitutes a "legend" while that person is right here with us on Earth. I believe many who knew Sam Chapman, would agree he's been legendary in our lives all along. After all, do we know anyone else who's ridden a motorcycle through the Sudbury Inn, out their front doors and down over the steps into Main Street?

Do we know anyone else whose parachute took them into the Androscoggin River, filled with water and sucked them under to drown... actually die... eventually to be retrieved by his brother, Alan, along with a number of desperate, frantic, determined people on shore pulling them both from the frigid, strong current... and then be miraculously revived by what Sam later described as the late Craig Paul's "sweet kisses" of resuscitation? Evidently Sam's work here on this Earth was not complete at that time. I know I'm certainly glad as I didn't meet him until later that year. Thankfully, the 35 years since that drowning allowed him so many more adventures and amazing life experiences, and especially that of he and Sarah Shepley to later bless this world with their two beautiful children, Hannah and Brady.

Do we know anyone else who entertained audiences as a Hank Williams impersonator, handsomely decked out in white from head to toe, crooning and traveling with a 50's show band? His passion and enthusiasm for music and performing was magnetic, whether playing with bands, or solo... entertaining with an extensive variety of cover tunes or playing his own compositions. Couldn't he prompt us to tears singing some of his beautifully moving lyrics accompanied by those sweet melodies he played on his guitar? And then transform us to laughter with his humorous songs? Or inspire us to hit the dance floor with one of his blues, rock n roll, or rockin' country songs, sometimes enhanced by those awesome additions from his harmonicas? And then delight us all as he utilized his various, creative voices in singing those remarkable tunes he wrote for children? Did we often feel he had such tremendous charisma and talent and believe that if it could be harnessed and managed, it could have been unstoppable? Absolutely. At the same time, however, did some of us realize that having all that talent was perhaps a double edged sword for him? Imagine having it, knowing it, and feeling the tremendous challenge and frustration he sometimes felt in not knowing how to bring it to its full potential. Bless you, Sam, and thank you for sharing your talents with us.

Did we highly admire his skill and ability to calculate and execute the "exact" place a humungous tree needed to fall... dropping it precisely where he planned? And couldn't this same tree expert brush off any sawdust, walk into his kitchen and produce gourmet dishes and amazing meals that left those partaking satisfied beyond description? As one friend said, "A stranger could show up at his door and he'd treat them like a million dollars... and you NEVER left hungry... even if it took his last dollar to make sure you were fed, and fed WELL!!!"

And...did knowing Sam Chapman inspire both male and female namesakes? Yes indeed.

Does legendary status intend to imply that our relationships with Sam were always perfect or smooth? Absolutely not. Did those who loved him always agree with his choices? Absolutely not. Did those who loved him sometimes get extremely frustrated, even exasperated with him? Absolutely. He knew this, and perhaps it even sparked his writing the amusing song, "Everybody Loves Me When I'm Gone." BUT, regardless of any possible frustrations or ups and downs, did we still always love him beyond measure? Absolutely.

Obviously, knowing Sam added so much to so many lives, and in the most recent years many of his friends were very happy for him because of the lovely addition to his life when he met and fell in love with his fiancée, Kathy Riley Berberian. Sam and Kathy recognized, respected, and nurtured wonderful qualities in each other, created a sweet home and life together, and were looking forward to their future. For those of us who have gotten to know Kathy through Sam, I like to think she is yet another of his gifts to us. And we as his friends, especially in our support to her now, are part of his gifts to her.

When the Sun Journal called asking about Sam last week, my responses felt horribly inadequate. It's impossible to describe him in a short conversation, or even in these few paragraphs... I've only slightly brushed a never ending surface. The upcoming gathering to celebrate Sam's life at the Bethel Inn Conference Center on Sunday, July 21, will be filled with so many more stories, so many connections, and so much love. We hope there will be many who will share their words over the microphone that day, but we also know there will be multitudes of perhaps the most colorful accounts of memories constantly taking place in the endless conversations throughout the room. We'll listen, we'll cry, we'll laugh, we'll create music... we'll remember and honor Sam Chapman.

For those who knew him, I'm sad for us all, yet thankful we had the chance to experience such an extraordinary soul. For those who didn't, I'm sorry for your loss. Sam leaves a void that will remain forever. I believe one never "gets over" the loss of anyone important to them, but instead can only hope to find ways to go on and manage living with that loss. May we all manage by taking the very, very best ways in which Sam influenced each of our lives, and live the rest of ours inspired by those ways. And may we find comfort believing the words many of you have heard Sam, Rolly, and I sing together so many times: "...someday when we meet up yonder, we'll stroll hand in hand again."

Celladore

'What do you do all winter?'

Light the lantern, down cellar, up with a basket full of empty jars, put on rubbers. Down again with a dipper and a white enamel pitcher, gently dip off the top surface of the wine until the pitcher is full. Upstairs, pour into jars and seal, a clear sparkling golden glint of autumn sunshine. Five quarts of this go down cellar. Up again with another pitcherful from the crock, bottle this and mark #2. Down cellar with this and up with more empty jars. Down and carefully pour off the rest of the wine until the dregs start floating to the top. Upstairs, bottle this and mark #3. Down with this. More upping and downing as process the second crock. By now the mercury could plummet to nadir and one feels no cold. At last all the bottles are in the cellar to age.

Now the mopping-up process. Drag up the big crocks and rinse out the dregs. The summer scent has gone; a sour odor hangs in the air. I wonder just how this grayish residue is made into cream of tartar. Scrub and scour the crocks, scald and dry. Down cellar with one, back for the other. Both safely stowed, these are heavy, precious, most difficult to replace. Back up with the two covers, scrub and scald them. In antique shops you can sometimes find crocks; they seldom get broken but the covers are collector's items. This is the time for caution. Well warmed, well exercised, a sense of euphoria from the job almost done can make you careless. Safely down. Up again, scrub and scald the dipper, the pitcher, the sink. Down again but this time into the Windsor chair. The invisible chill has vanished, winter will not be long, the black stove purrs, a serene quietude hovers over all.

Another day I get the boxes of candles in order. Making them is supposed to be somewhat of a festive pre-Noel rite. Here where we use them every night for dinner from late October till late April, they are necessities.

In the top drawer of the dining room buffet I keep two kinds: one the proper color which matches the décor of the room. At mealtime when we are alone, I whisk these from the row of brass holders, replace them with multicolor unmatched stubs that all our friends bring to us, and self-righteously "use them up." In the cellarway there are tin boxes of this and that. We have never had mice in the house, but habit makes me think maybe the temptation to nibble wax, if there might lure them.

We always say for presents we only want simple straight candles. We often get not these but fancy shapes and sizes. They seldom burn well and after a few evenings fall apart. I save all the remains.

On this day I take old coffee cans, set inside, Prince Albert tobacco cans for makeshift double boilers. Melt down the year's collection of abandoned candles, add some stearic acid, a crayon for color if it blends with the shade of the wax, and repour them into molds B.B. has made me from old brass pipes. Set them in the woodshed to partially cool, bring them in and poke a wire about, refill the gap, cool again. The newspapers dotted with spills make wonderful kindling for the fires.

RON SAVAGE ON SIGNS

To the Editor:

Our town manager, Jim Doar, has taken a position in regard to the signs for our restaurant that is unreasonable and not in keeping with what the voters want. At the town meeting on June 12, voters overwhelmingly passed the new sign ordinance. As of today, July 9 the code enforcement officer is not issuing any sign permits and he said that it could be the end of September or October before any new signs would be erected. In the meantime the town manager expects area businesses to move forward through our potentially busy summer with no road signs directing summer tourists to our venues!

We have tried to work with the town for the last 17 months to improve the ordinance regarding directional signs. The town manager has known about dozens of sign violations around town over the past year and has chosen to single out our business and our business only. The code enforcement officer has admitted to me that he writes the violations and submits them to Jim Doar. Jim Doar then decides on his own, which violations he chooses to ignore and just send letters to and which ones he chooses to take legal action upon. As a matter of fact one of the selectmen has an illegal sign at his business which the code enforcement officer is aware of and has ignored. The code enforcement officer admits that this approach is selective enforcement. Is this system fair, are all businesses to be treated the same, I think not! The town manager has chosen to leave the old signs in place until the replacements are ready. Why not allow the new, legally voted signs, to be erected temporarily until the new permanent system is in place?

Selectman Stan Howe told me that the old signs are "grandfathered," that is not accurate. We, as business owners, have a responsibility to advocate for our business, employees, vendors and mortgage holders. What we have asked for, the right to erect temporary directional signs, is reasonable and should never have turned into this mess.

You will see four new directional signs being erected by the Department of Transportation which were approved by Governor LePage and the Commissioner of the Department of Transportation. We intend to follow the new ordinance once the town gets off their feet and implements it. We as taxpayers should be upset with the town manager for starting a law suit against us, without unanimous consent of the selectmen, with taxpayers' money when the voters have spoken.

We appreciate the support of the town's people in this matter and are sorry for this mess.

Ron Savage

Signs

LePage had discussed the timeframe for the installation of the permanent town signs, "and the commissioner came back and directed us to [install the Black Diamond signs]."

Talbot emphasized the signs are temporary, and MDOT "tries not to impede local ordinances."

But, he said when asked, the department would be open to requests from other Bethel businesses for temporary signs "as long as they have an eye toward permanent signage. We wouldn't refuse any conversation."

(For Ron Savage's view on the issue, see Letter to the Editor at left.)

Bethel Town Manager Jim Doar was asked Tuesday about the state action.

"I just learned this was happening from MDOT today, even though they made the decision on the 3rd," he said. "We plan on speaking with them Thursday morning and if I have anything to say after that meeting, I will."

Doar was also asked about the timeline for the installation of new signs.

He said mid-September has been established as the goal. "We set aside part of our process to expedite it," he said. "The selectmen usually approve bids before they are sent out, but didn't this time in order to speed up the process."

Doar said requests for bids from companies to create the signs were due yesterday (Wednesday) and selectmen would choose one at Monday's selectboard meeting.

"We're not going to set aside the requirement to go out to bid," he added.

Doar also said the town had decided to use one manufacturer in order to have consistent signs. That company will have eight weeks to produce the signs - a timeframe two contractors found too short, and as a result opted not to put in a bid, he said. (Late note: No bids were received Wednesday.)

Doar was asked about the possibility of the town allowing businesses to put up temporary signs until the permanent ones are completed.

That, he said, would go against town ordinance, the state billboard law and the town's memorandum of understanding with the state.

BETHEL HOME BURNS-A fire late last Wednesday morning destroyed the Intervale Road home of Bob and Jackie Schuesler in Bethel. Firefighters from Bethel, Greenwood, Woodstock, Newry, Gilead, Andover and Rumford responded. There was concern for a time about a propane tank near the house. The couple was safely outside the home while firefighters fought the blaze, shown here about 10 minutes after the 911 call was made. The Schueslers had left their home for about 40 minutes, and when they returned found the fire, officials said. A cause has not yet been determined. Bethel Rescue and the Oxford County Sheriff's Department also assisted at the scene. The Schueslers have found temporary housing nearby with their dog, who was at the vet with Jackie when the fire broke out. Two cats and a rabbit, however, were in the home and were not accounted for. culture, said Lane. And, she said, "There are tons of tourists who come here to hunt and fish."

Since they opened, she said, area guides have brought people in to buy supplies. "And we get information from people on what they want us to carry," she said.

As for the seafood business, Fredette describes it as "fantastic."

He drives down to the coast each weekend and buys lobsters, clams, oysters and fish from the co-op. BBTM also has a wholesale seafood license and sells to local restaurants, Lane said.

On July 4th the shop had sold out of lobster by lunchtime.

BBTM also carries a variety of items from local vendors, including arts and crafts items and sauces and maple syrup.

The store is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Monday.

It will also be open on Tuesdays beginning in August.

Briefly

Mt. Mann Jewelers changes hands

BETHEL—Jim Mann, owner of Mt. Mann Jewelers, last week announced the sale of his business to Larry Stifler of Albany and Brookline, Mass., according to a press release. Mt. Mann Jewelers has been a Main Street business for 23 years. "While I will miss all the people who would come into the store, I am excited about the prospects of retirement. Spending more time with my wife and family as well as being more involved in Bethel's Rotary Club. The business has been such a large part of my life I am happy to see someone like Larry Stifler take the helm. Hopefully, one day I will take my grandkids to see parts of my old collection of Maine gems and minerals on display in the Museum," Mann said. Barbra Barrett, who will be managing the daily operations of Mt. Mann Jewelers said "Mt. Mann's doors will remain open and operate business as usual until the Maine Mineral Museum opens next year." The staff at the business will be staying on to ensure the same high quality of customer service in the future.

Sunday River pledges funds for Black Mountain

RUMFORD— When Franklin Savings Bank offered to match up to $10,000 in donations to save Black Mountain of Maine, "we had no idea it would happen so quickly," said FSB's River Valley Branches Manager Diane Perry in a press release. Just days after the match from Franklin Savings Bank was announced, the fund-raising effort to save the ski area has passed $13,000, securing the $10,000 grant from the bank. In addition, Sunday River Ski Resort has pledged to match an additional $5,000 so donors will still be able to double the impact of their donation. With the two matches included, donations are at about $23,000 a week after the effort was initiated. All told, the ski area needs $150,000 to continue operating. "Once word got around that the popular community ski area would close, everyone has rallied. This little ski area means a lot to the people of the River Valley," said Perry.

Bethel

By DON BENNETT

The week started off with the expectation of a completely preplanned July art festival week. It was tragically interrupted when a house fire on the Intervale Road left Bob and Jackie Schuesler homeless and with the only personal items left being the clothes they were wearing. I was on my way into Bethel village when fire engines were going by on their way from Newry. It was easy to see the fire's location with the pillar of smoke rising across the river.

I made it to the fire scene — at least a dozen fire engines and crews were there. At that point the fire was at the blow torch level. Luckily the fire was contained and the woods around the house did not catch fire to any extent.

The next day when I went back to see what was left, it was amazing to see that the nearby outbuildings were saved.

Luckily this time the fire was contained. In May 1944, the planer mill, lumber yard, office and home of Leslie E. Davis on the Middle Interval Road were "destroyed by a fire which spread to the woods and threatened to burn several others nearby homes. Losses: Davis's two and one-half story house which contained his office and their home, a large truck garage with an upstairs rent, and 60 by 120 foot lumber sheds plus between seven and eight hundred thousand feet of lumber".

Comments about the fire on Facebook indicated that some type of support program for the Schueslers would be started. Debbie Brown's shop was mentioned as a collecting point for clothing donations. Hopefully, there will be more news in this week's Citizen.

The art shows

This year's art fair week must have set a record for advertising and promotion. The Bethel Inn's major push to celebrate its 100th anniversary added more fizz to the week's cheerleading. Roughly, the weekend art shows could be described as art for and by professionals at the Moses Mason House; art for consumers at the Bethel Art Fair on the Common and a public get together at Janet Willies' place on High Street for a show-and-tell by local amateurs who are proud of their work.

Starting with the pros — the showing of work by the BHS exhibit also highlights the work of Erik Koepel and Lauren Sansaricq, nationally-recognized plein air artists whose painting is in the Hudson River style. Lauren had a painting of Mount Chocoma on exhibit which she said took about four and one-half months to do.

Trek

Not only will trekkers be able to enjoy a cookout on Thursday night (tonight), but on Friday morning they will be joined for the paddle from Mexico to Dixfield by the Clean Water Carbon Fund. CWCF has agreed to plant a tree along the river for each participant on the river that day.

Diana Petrakos is the new program coordinator for the trek, and she is very excited about being able to offer more variety. Petrakos is filling the shoes of Jessie Perkins, who is now at the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. Diana's love for the wilds of Maine and New Hampshire extend back to the 80's as a field instructor and program manager for the Hurricane Island Outward Bound School.

Petrakos is also looking for volunteers to help lead sections of the river, sponsors to help keep the trek "afloat," and a $10 donation from each paddler is encouraged, but not required.

To make a donation in support of the trek visit <http://arsc.camp7.org> and click on the source to the Sea 2013 link and click donation.

All inquiries should be made to Petrakos via email, trek@androscooginwatershed.org, or by calling 754-8158. Donations may be mailed to Androscoogin River Watershed Council, P.O. Box 1541, Bethel, ME 04217.

BETHEL column can't from Page 4

This painting was available for purchase - price $8,500. Besides the work on form and perspective, creating such a painting involves periods of days while the colored glazes must dry before work can resume. Erik told me that the Hudson River School landscape artists were prominent in the 19th Century period before impressionist art which was born in France then made its way to America.

Besides the work of Erik and Lauren, the Bethel Historical Society exhibit included a number of Hudson River School works. This exhibition will continue through August.

On the Common Saturday's traditional art show on the Common could probably be more accurately called an outdoor mall, complete with food and entertainment. Three exhibitors were repeats; they showed exceedingly fine work - one was watercolors by Irene Duplissis of Auburn, another was an exhibit of beeswax paintings by Lori Austill of South Portland and the third was reverse glass painting.

Are there modern gas stations in Bethel?

One of the Bethel Art Fair visitors (apparently here from Vermont) who is a member of my age group, asked me if there were any modern gas stations in Bethel (village). Listening to him I found out that he must have gassed up at the Big Apple on Railroad Street. He thought it odd that there you had to go into the store and run your credit card there instead of at the pump.

I told him that Irving on Route 2 about two miles away had very modern facilities (as well as Mallard Mart). But our visitor meant in the village. So I explained to him about the good old days when there were lots of small stores and three gas stations on or near Main Street - Pete Chapin, Dick Young and Central Service. Then I found out that he had skied at Sunday River in the early '60s when the only lift was a T-bar. Well we had a good time chatting.

Shy, Novice and Closeted Art Show

Janet Willie seemed very pleased with the turnout of artists exhibiting this year - 46 came with work to display. At the Friday evening reception held for contributing artists, Steve Seames came dressed as a gentleman from Saudi Arabia. He had an excellent, different three piece exhibit - sculpture, wood carving and stone.

By coincidence, considering the nearby Hudson River School exhibit, the artist who I thought was best of show this year was Dwight Mills whose work showed mountain landscapes that were strong reminders of the paintings I had just seen at the Hudson River School exhibition.

To see more of the weekend art shows, Bethel's 2013 Art Weekend, will be reported in a video to be posted by July 10.

No covered bridge paintings

Surprisingly enough there were no paintings of Artist Bridge shown in any of the three shows in Bethel. Artist Bridge was named for a professional artist who once had a camp in North Newry, frequently painted in the Sunday River valley, had studied in France, was for a time a summer boarder at the Locke's Farm in Bethel and then for a number of years was the artist in residence at the Iron Mountain House in Jackson, N.H. His name was John J. Enneking (1841-1916).

Enneking became known as the "sunset painter". He was also well known for his paintings of blossoming apple orchards. You can read more about Enneking at http://www.oxfordgallery.com/Period\_Artists/enneking.html and <http://www.thebetheljournals.info/Names/Enneking.htm>.

Bethel

By NANCY BROWN

There are dozens of acres of blossoming potato plants on Route 2 just east of Bethel. The bright green plants are covered in white blossoms with bright yellow stamens. Potato blossoms, which range in color from white to blue and lavender, indicate the plants are beginning to produce potatoes. They'll be ready to dig in late summer. Not only are potatoes Maine's number one crop, but they are the leading vegetable crop in the United States. More than one million acres are planted each year with a yield of more than 40 billion pounds. Last year Americans ate an average of 117 pounds of potatoes per person. Only about 50 percent of the potatoes we ate were fresh, the rest were processed as frozen, dehydrated, and canned potatoes or chips.

We're lucky to live in an area where we can see where and how our food is produced. Some of it we can pick ourselves, which is a reminder that blueberries are almost ready. This past week the local farmers' markets had fresh herbs, garlic, greens, rhubarb, beets and carrots.

We had a bit of a heat wave last week with temperatures hitting the high 80s and 90s. If you don't have air-conditioning at home, there are some great places in Bethel to go to escape the heat. If you want to be outdoors, try Angevine Park on the North Road. The park has shade trees, a swimming hole, and picnic tables. The park is open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The water slide is open at Big Adventure on Route 2, and across the street at Bethel Outdoor Adventure, you can rent canoes or kayaks. Almost all of our restaurants and stores are air-conditioned; a hot day can be a good excuse for a meal out or a shopping trip. The Bethel Library is also a cool place to go. The library not only has magazines, books, and movies to use there or to borrow, but also has free public access computers and Wi-Fi.

from you all, yet more questions. The "piles" are wood ash, yet now folks want to know where they came from and how they were processed?

Arlene told me that Mr. and Mrs. Dirk Smith and their two kids stopped in for directions to Otisfield. Dirk is her grandson and she was very happy to see them all. This also brings me to updates about the East Bethel School Reunion. Arlene Harrington was presented the Grange Community Service Award by the Alder River Grange for work done for the Community. Congratulations, Arlene, from all of us in the neighborhood. Also, Stanley Howe and Alvin Stevens were presented 55 year Membership Certificates and Seals. Congratulations and thank you from the neighborhood. Edna York, the last known, still living teacher at the East Bethel School was also in attendance again.

Tonya Hebert Lewis told me that she and John and went out to a delicious breakfast at Cross-stone restaurant and then had a late lunch at Norway Soft Serve! Their first time being able to actually celebrate! Last year they had a little baby and their first anniversary he spent in Afghanistan! Happy Third Anniversary from all of us in the neighborhood. Also a special thanks to you both.

The votes for our mock elections are coming in strong. We may need a tie breaker, so please make sure to give me your votes. I would like to say that I feel honored to be the housekeeper at the Holiday House B&B. Second year in a row now, received the Certificate of Excellence from TripAdvisor.

Now the new Trivia: In November 1967, who were the lucky hunters mentioned for East Bethel? Have a great week.

Locke's Mills

By BETSEY FOSTER

The Town of Greenwood went to court earlier this week for the unauthorized junk yard of Doug Grover on Rowe Hill Road. It was too late for this column but there's always next week.

Despite a ban on fireworks, some very rude people in the North Pond area near Route 26 set off fireworks from 1:30 to 2:30 a.m. Saturday. That is well past the allowed 4th of July exemption. Lots of folks are complaining and joking about how to get even. The idea I like best is to pick up the phone around 2 a.m. and call the Legislators who voted for this chaos and see how they like it. Let the politicians get as good as they give.

Dinner with the firefighters this Friday. Fish Fry Friday, July 12, 3 to 6 p.m. at the Howe Hill Road fire station.

There will be a Celebration of Life for Sam Chapman Sunday, July 21, 2 p.m. at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. This is a change from earlier plans. There will be stories told, songs sung, and pot luck dishes to share. Open to all. I doubt Sam would have wanted it any other way.

Blueberries are starting to ripen, and the war is on between birds, bears, and people as to which gets them first.

A fellow-swimmer asked about pond and lake depths around here, and I promised I'd put the link to the State pond depth maps in this column. Here it is: http://www.maine.gov/ifw/fishing/lakesurvey\_maps/. It is a great resource. It has ponds and lakes by county and gives the depths at varying locations for each pond. It also identifies the fish species in each water body.

Of course, the above website does not include what ponds and rivers have leeches, those grotesque creatures also known as bloodsuckers. While I always thought leeches required still water, I was sort of wrong. Their preferred habitat is shallow, vegetative bodies of standing or slow moving water, such as streams, standing lakes or ponds. They like ponds and lakes with "muck" on the bottom, the muck being the sediment that settles in stagnant water bodies. When organic pollution is high, the population count of leeches will soar.

Leeches are attracted to water disturbance around docks and swimming areas. On hot summer days leeches are most active. Oh, joy.

So what do you do if you get one on you? Well, it's not what many of us did as kids. No salt, no burning them. This causes them to regurgitate in your wound. They have nasty bacteria in their stomachs, and those go right into your bloodstream when they do this.

Here's the removal method from a world-renowned leech expert. Find the skinny end of the leech and use your finger or finger nail to push it sideways off the bite point. Once it's released, you will bleed from the wound. That's okay. The bleeding is normal and is caused by the anticoagulants the leech puts in the wound. Then, just get it to release from the fat end the same way. Leeches are an important part of the food chain in our ponds. Fish, birds, garter snakes, newts, salamanders, insects, and snails eat leeches. I try to keep an open mind about all types of creatures, but, in this case, I'm cheering for those snails. On the other hand, a leech's diet includes mosquitoes and gnats. OK, maybe they are not all bad.

Andover

By JANE RICH

Don't forget the Family Ballgame Night at the town field by Mills' Market this evening at 6 p.m.

Folks of all ages are welcome for tee-ball, Whiffle ball or softball. Tennis rackets for kids are available. For those adult volleyball enthusiasts, outdoor volleyball is on Wednesday and Sunday evenings at 6 p.m.

Olde Home Day buttons and T-shirts are available in local stores. So support this wonderful Andover tradition by purchasing these items. The Olde Home Day Committee will meet on Monday, July 15 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall to finalize plans for the first weekend in August annual event.

Part of Olde Home Day is the 62nd annual Flower Show at the Historical Society. The theme for this year is Barns and Agriculture and there will be several categories for local flower growers to display their best blooms. New this year is Barn Wedding—a hand tied bouquet and Harvesting a Garden—home-grown vegetables and/or fruits arranged in a basket. Contest requirements are available at local stores.

For the first time in quite some time we now have five businesses on Main Street. New this year are Kate's Kones featuring Gifford's ice cream and the re-opened Mills Market with a line of groceries and fishing equipment. Barry Martin's Garage continues to serve local car owners and those with small engine equipment.

At the four corners, we have the Little Red Hen Restaurant and Bakery which features Friday and Saturday evening meals as well as daily breakfast and lunch. The "Hen" is closed on Mondays. Across the street is Andover General with gas, food, lottery tickets and a huge assortment of snacks, as well as spirits. Vacation Bible Schools will be hosted by both churches this summer. The Calvary Bible Church program is entitled "Kingdom Chronicles" and will be in session July 8 through 12 from 6 to 8 p.m. each evening. The First Congregational Church will sponsor "The Voice on the Mountain," a three day program, July 22, 23, 24 from 9 a.m. until noon. Those of us of a certain age fondly remember VBS and the great times we had not only learning about God and the Bible, but also the fun of seeing friends from school.

The Andover Food Pantry continues to be opened on Tuesday mornings 9 to 10 and serves Andover, Upton, Roxbury and Byron. The pantry is located at the First Congregational Church.

Gilead

By LIN CHAPMAN

Having the temperature hover around 90 degrees for several days is just a little too much for me. That usually brings on a thunder-shower and then the air gets humid. I don't mind the heat if it is on the dry side!

My brother, Steve McLain, stopped by for a few minutes Saturday morning. He sat out on the corner with us for a little while as we opened up the historical buildings and set up for the "Cold Bottled Water Project".

We have seen several Rose-Breasted Grosbeaks at the feeder this summer. Usually, they are here in the spring and then we do not see much of them through the summer.

Last Sunday, we heard a racket in the pine tree and there was a juvenile sitting on a limb waiting for the adult to bring it something to eat. They did that a few times and then flew across Route 2 into the trees in the picnic area.

They must have decided that this area was a good place to nest this year. We only saw a Bluebird once this summer but Jeff Hutchins has seen several of them.

We did not make it to Bethel for the Art Fair last Saturday, but we did go down on Friday evening to the Shy, Novice and Closeted show at Janet Willie's.

Our neighbor, Morgan McLean, who is the granddaughter of Wayne and Linda Taylor of Gilead, had a display of the beautiful photographs that she took.

She has quite an eye for finding some great subjects to take pictures of, such as, just the grill of her grandfather's tractor, a beautiful sunset, a leaf lying on the ground with a little drop of water on it. She had taken a picture of discarded flags that had been removed from the cemetery when the Boy Scouts helped the Legion put out new ones for Memorial Day. They were respectfully laid out and were waiting to be disposed of properly. Morgan has done a great job and should be very proud of her accomplishments.

Gilead Historical Society

This past Saturday, a few members of the GHS decided to set up on the corner lot and open up the Railroad Station and the Schoolhouse. We also try to entice people to stop and look at them by offering cold bottled water.

Any monetary donations for the water will go to help renovations on the buildings. Mary Tyler arrived early as Steve, Hugh and I were setting up and spent the day greeting the people who stopped by. After lunch Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire stopped by.

A little later, Bob and Judy Bishop arrived and stayed until it was time to help pick up.

We were also out there on the Fourth of July and had just a few people stop, but Saturday there were about twenty people who stopped. There were a few local people, but there were cars from Massachusetts and Arizona. The guy on the bicycle did not say where he was from.

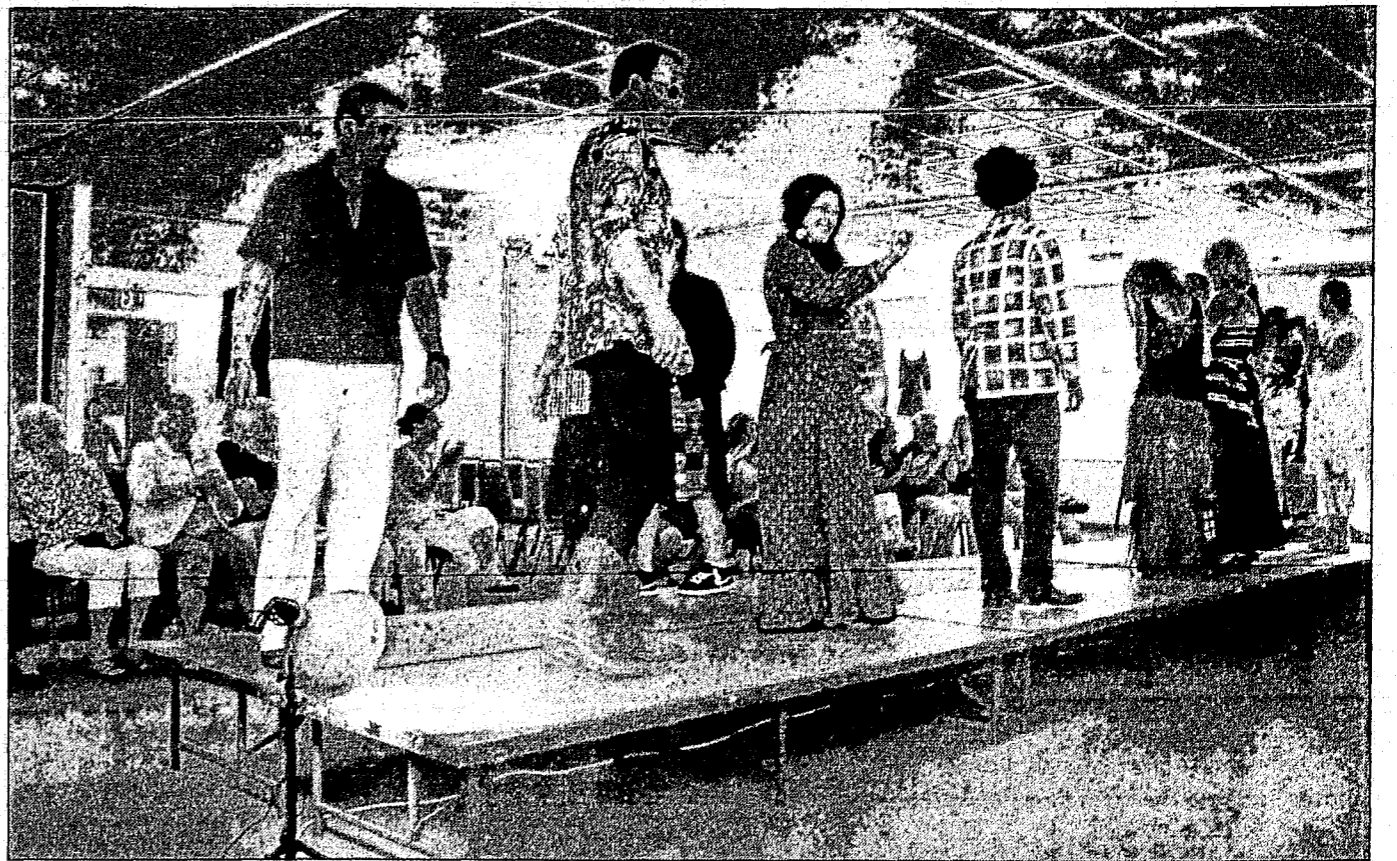

Got any news? Call 836-2987 or email chapmal@hotmail.com.

ART AND FASHION-The annual Bethel Art Fair took place Saturday on the Bethel Common and featured more than 80 artists (one of them pictured below). The same day the Bethel Inn celebrated its 100th anniversary with events that included a car parade/show and a fashion show. shey Chocolate Park, and on to visit the Liberty Bell. We had a grand time and I so enjoyed the history we observed and could share with my grandsons.

Margaret and Franklin Barton enjoyed the fourth with their adult children and grandchildren. Sunday they joined Brett and Beth Barton, Alicia and Matthew for cake and ice cream to celebrate Matthew's 17th birthday.

Our community was saddened by the death of Candy Howard recently. Our sympathy goes out to her son P.J. and daughter Laurie and their children.

I hope next week I can gather up more news as people return to a normal routine after a busy long weekend.

Enjoy each day as summer is far too short. Wish for more sun and less rain. Less humidity would be fine with me.

Backyard reflections

Turtle Island

A couple of weeks ago I was walking up a woodland road when I spied a large painted turtle ambling along the path in a relaxed but determined way. I calculated that this turtle had to be at least two miles from the nearest body of water and this I believed was highly unusual because these reptiles normally live in slow moving ponds and feed on aquatic vegetation, algae and small insects, crustaceans and fish. I picked up my friend to find out whether it might be a female. The large round domed carapace (shell) and the narrow pointed tail suggested this was indeed a female turtle. Was she on a mission to lay her eggs? If so she was traveling quite a long distance from any body of water. Although some older painted turtles do travel further than a few hundred feet to dig their two to four inch conical nests with their hind feet, no one seems to know why some journey so far.

Painted turtles liked sandy soil and deposit five to 15 eggs in a nest with a southern exposure, if possible. Often the females return to the same spring

(May to July) sites every year. If the temperature is too hot these turtles will delay egg laying until night falls. In northern climates the painted turtle may lay one or two clutches of eggs a year, after which she returns home to her aquatic world leaving the elliptical, porous, leathery eggs to hatch in about 72 to 80 days. Each small turtle has an egg tooth which allows it to break through its shell where for the first week or so it feeds on its egg yolk. In northern climates the offspring often do not leave the nest site in August or September but arrange themselves in the nest and overwinter or hibernate to emerge in the spring. The hatchlings ability to survive the winter in the nest has allowed painted turtles to extend their range further north than any other American turtle. These turtles can survive extended periods of sub-freezing temperatures with blood and skin that can resist being penetrated by ice crystals. Some painted turtles have been documented living for more than fifty years. They range from Canada to Mexico and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. This turtle is the most widespread native turtle in this country, and fossils indicate that the painted turtle tle existed 15 million years ago.

Eric Lowell of Newry and Logan Bartlett of West Bethel received their certificate of completion June 21 from the Maine State Police Junior Trooper Program at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Vassalboro. Eric spent his career week in March with Lt. David Tripp of Monroe, working with State Troopers, a Game Warden and the Maine State Police K-9 Unit. Logan spent his week in the Bethel area with State Troopers. Both Eric and Logan will be seniors at Telstar Regional High School this fall.

While examining her beautiful markings I was swept back into childhood on my grandparents' farm. My brother and I used to catch frogs and painted turtles every summer and I have never grown out of loving these magnificent marked creatures with their golden bottom shells (plastron) and exquisitely striped crimson and yellow legs, neck, and tails. The turtle's face has yellow stripes with a streak behind each eye. The top of the carapace is olive or almost black but the sides of the shells are painted with an intricate design in orange and black ink. The painted turtle's feet are webbed for swimming.

I was surprised that this particular individual seemed so friendly. Instead of retracting her head and legs in fright she seemed calm, and appeared to be watching me in curiosity as I held her shell in my hands and looked into her ebony eyes. Occasionally she made little swimming motions with her feet but otherwise appeared unconcerned. I asked her if I could bring her home for the afternoon to photograph her before returning her to spot I had found her. Although she made no response to my request I sensed that it would be all right to take her home, and so I did. I placed her in one of my aquariums with a couple of stones and moss to sit on and added some water so that she could feed in comfort. I gave her a bit of spinach and some duckweed which she devoured quite happily as I took my pictures. Although I only kept her for a few hours she remained alert and seemed particularly interested in my comings and goings. Early that evening I reluctantly returned her to the spot where I had first made her acquaintance that afternoon. When I placed her on the ground I watched her wander up the hill in the same direction that she had been traveling in when I found her, grateful for one more opportunity to participate in nature's wonder.

A couple of weeks later I was out in North Pond kayaking near one of my favorite swampy places trying my best to sneak up on one of the many painted turtles basking in the sun on half sunken logs. As I approached several individuals each slipped into the water and disappeared in an instant into the mud reminding me how fortunate I was to have met this friendly reptile in the forest. Research suggests that sound perception is poor in turtles but that they have a good sense of smell and excellent color vision. Painted turtles, like all reptiles, are dependent upon the heat from the sun to warm them. It moves me that turtles use touch as a way to communicate with one another especially during mating season when one turtle will put its clawed feet around the face of another in what appears to me to be an endearing gesture.

Turtles of all kinds are revered by peoples across the planet and many cultures depict either a turtle or a tortoise as either carrying the world on its back or supporting the heavens. In China, the turtle/tortoise depicts the element of water, and symbolizes the north. In all cultures the turtle is associated with strength, longevity, and endurance.

Turtles are the symbol of the earth in many Native American tribes. In some Native American traditions the World Turtle carries the earth on its back. The Mohawk believe that the Old Grandmother Turtle creates volcanic eruptions because she is stretching beneath the world trying to keep it in place, and her burden is heavy. In Polynesia, indigenous peoples say that people were hatched from eggs that were laid by the Great World Turtle. In the creation myths of most northeastern tribes the Great Spirit created the land by placing the earth on the back of a Great Turtle, and this is why some contemporary Native peoples refer to North America by the name "Turtle Island."

2012 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

Bethel Water District

Bethel, Maine
PWSID ME0090160

We're pleased to present to you our Annual Drinking Water Quality Report, also known as the Consumer Confidence Report. This report, a requirement of the 1996 amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act, is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

WATER SOURCE
Our water source comes from five drilled groundwater wells located in Bethel ranging from 36-40 feet in depth. The wells are treated with chlorine to protect from possible bacterial contaminants and fluoride to promote dental health. Our system serves a population of 1,405 customers through 656 service connections.

SOURCE WATER ASSESSMENT
The Maine Drinking Water Program (DWP) has evaluated all public water supplies as part of the Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP). The assessments included geology, hydrology, land uses, water testing information, and the extent of land ownership or protection by local ordinance to see how likely our drinking water source is to being contaminated by human activities in the future. Assessment results are available at public water suppliers, town offices, and the DWP. For more information about the SWAP, please contact the DWP at telephone 207-287-2070.

Waiver Information
Current waiver information: 1/1/2010-12/31/2012
In 2010 our system was granted a "Synthetic Organics Waiver. This is a three year exemption from the monitoring/reporting requirements for pesticides, herbicides, fungicides and other industrial chemicals. This waiver was granted due to the absence of these potential sources of contamination within half a mile of the water source.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water system, please contact Lucien Roberge, Superintendent, or Donald Katlin, Assistant Superintendent, at telephone number 207-824-2342 or mailing address PO Box 104, Bethel, ME 04217. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the third Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m. at the Bethel Town Office Meeting Room on Main Street.

WATER QUALITY
Bethel Water District routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The following table shows any detection resulting from our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2012.

The sources of drinking water include rivers, lakes, ponds and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and radioactive material and can pick up substances resulting from human or animal activity. All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
Pesticides and herbicides may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
Radioactive contaminants can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

The table below lists all of the drinking water contaminants that were detected through our water quality monitoring and testing. The presence of contaminants in the water does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk.

Bethel Water District had no violations in 2012

TEST RESULTS
Unless otherwise noted, testing was done in 2012.
Contaminant	Violation Y/N	Level Detected	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Microbiological Contaminants
Total Coliform Bacteria (Aug 2012)	N	1 positive	Highest monthly # of positive samples	0 positive	1 positive	Naturally present in the environment
Inorganic Contaminants
Barium (8/6/12)	N	0.0052	ppm	2	2	Erosion of natural deposits
Copper* (1/1/12-12/31/12)	N	0.21	ppm	1.3	AL=1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems
Fluoride (5/22/12)	N	0.81	ppm	4	4	Water additive which promotes strong teeth
Lead* (1/1/12-12/31/12)	N	3	ppb	0	AL=15	Corrosion of household plumbing systems

Nitrate (8/6/12)	N	0.32	ppm	10	10	Runoff from fertilizer use; leaching from septic tanks, sewerage; erosion of natural deposits
* = Reported results are the 90th percentile value (the value that 90% of all samples are less than).
Disinfection By-Products
THM (2011) (Total Trihalomethanes)	N	RAA = 3.2	ppb	0	80	By-product of drinking water chlorination

Note: The table allows us to monitor for some contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Not all contaminants are tested for every year due to monitoring waivers and therefore we must use the most recent round of sampling. Some of our data is more than one year old, however, is limited to no older than 5 years.

Definitions:
Action Level (AL) - The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfection Level (MRDL) - The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum Residual Disinfection Level Goal (MRDLG) - The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Not Applicable (NA) - Does not apply.
Running Annual Average (RAA) - The average of all monthly or quarterly samples for the last year at all sample locations.
Treatment Technique (TT) - A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water (e.g. treatment technique for turbidity).
Variances, Exemptions, and Waivers - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL, a treatment technique or test for a given contaminant under certain conditions.
Units:
Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.
Parts per billion (ppb) or micrograms per liter (µg/L) - One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Parts per million (ppm) or milligrams per liter (mg/L) - One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Picoeuries per liter (pCi/L) - A measure of the radioactivity in water.

Notes:
Barium: Some people who drink water containing barium in excess of the MCL over many years could experience an increase in their blood pressure.
Fluoridation: There is a target fluoride level of 0.7 mg/l and a control range of 0.5-1.2 mg/l for those systems that fluoridate water.
Nitrate: Nitrate in drinking water at levels above 10 ppm is a health risk for infants less than six months of age. High nitrate levels in drinking water can cause blue baby syndrome. Nitrate levels may rise quickly for short periods of time because of rainfall or agricultural activity. If you are caring for an infant you should ask advice from your health care provider.
Radon: The State of Maine adopted a Maximum Exposure Guideline (MEG) for Radon in drinking water at 4000 pCi/L, effective 1/1/07. If Radon exceeds the MEG in water, treatment is recommended. It is also advisable to test indoor air for Radon. The U.S. EPA is proposing setting federal standards for Radon in public drinking water.
Total Coliform Bacteria: Reported as the highest monthly number of positive samples, for water systems that take < 40 samples per month.
THM/HAA5: Total Trihalomethanes (THM) and Haloacetic Acids (HAA5) are formed as a by-product of drinking water chlorination. This chemical reaction occurs when chlorine combines with naturally occurring organic matter in water.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION
Since our system chlorinates its water, we are required to report our annual average for chlorine residual. Chlorine Residual was found to be 0.26 ppm, with a range of 0.20 ppm to 0.33 ppm.

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets all Federal and State requirements.

All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

For most people, the health benefits of drinking plenty of water outweigh any possible health risk from these contaminants. However, some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immunocompromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/Center of Disease Control (CDC) guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. We are responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for thirty (30) seconds to two (2) minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested.

Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

We, at Bethel Water District, work hard to provide top quality water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect and preserve our drinking water resources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life, and our children's future. Please contact us with any questions. Thank you for working together for safe drinking water.

AmeriCorps at 4-H Camp

A team with the National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC), an AmeriCorps program, is working with the 4-H Camp in association with the University of Maine to build and improve the camp's infrastructure. For two weeks, seven NCCC members will stain and paint cabins, clear trails and build structures, including greenhouses and raised beds, to help campers learn about the environment in which they live.

The team, Raven 5, will help improve 4-H's infrastructure, which in turn will help youth from underprivileged circumstances enjoy a safe campus for educational and recreational purposes. During its two-week term with the University of Maine, the team aims to clear as many paths and camping sites as possible, enabling campers to have a rich experience.

"The focus of the current project is to finish or in some cases refinish our newly built cabins, shower house, art cottage, and barn," said Ron Fournier, Director of the 4-H camp. "The [AmeriCorps] group has a strong work ethic, and have performed very well together."

The Raven 5 team is based in Perry Point, Md., but consists of members from around the country. In addition to working with 4-H of the University of Maine, members of the team will be working with local non-profit Mahoosuc Arts Council to help set up and run exhibits.

Bethel Historical Society news

The Dr. Moses Mason House opened for its 39th season of guided tours on Tuesday, July 2, with longtime volunteer Allan Marcotte conducting visitors through the nine period rooms in Bethel Hill's oldest residence. At 1:30 p.m. on that same day, an enthusiastic group of Society members and friends gathered to honor the 200th anniversary of the building's construction in 1813. To begin the program, Stanley Howe, Executive Director Emeritus, provided highlights of the life of Dr. Mason, who resided in the fine, Federal style house with his wife, Agnes, until his death in 1866. Following Howe's presentation, the Society's Executive Director and Curator, Randy Bennett, told the audience about the history of the house itself, pointing out some of the structure's more uncommon features. Finally, Bennett introduced James and Linda Auman of Warren, N.J., and Norway. After two years of work, Jim Auman recently completed a highly detailed scale model of the Mason House which he and his wife donated to the Society in honor of its bicentenary. In gratitude for this and previous gifts, the BHS Board of Trustees presented the Aumans with Honorary Memberships in the Society, as well as one of the limited edition ornaments created to mark the anniversary. The model is now on permanent display at the visitors' entrance to the Mason House.

The weather cooperated on July 4 for the Society's annual Community Picnic and Concert by the Portland Brass Quintet. Nearly 200 people attended this popular holiday event which began with a brief address by Matt Ruby, Gould Academy's Head of School, followed by the presentation of colors by members of the Mundt-Allen Legion Post of Bethel. The Society wishes to express its thanks, again, to all who made donations to offset the cost of the concert and other summer events.

On Saturday, July 6, the Society's major 2013 exhibition, "Pictures Serene and Sublime: Traditional White Mountain Art Recaptured," opened at the Mason House. On view Tuesday through Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. through August 31, the display features 23 19th and early 20th century White Mountain landscapes (including a number of Bethel area scenes), as well as numerous paintings by Erik Koeppel and Lauren Sansaricq, nationally-recognized plein air artists who create masterful works in the Hudson River style.

The contemporary works by Koeppel and Sansaricq, who maintain a studio and residence in Jackson, N.H., are available for purchase, with a portion of each sale benefitting the Society's Museum Shop.

PET OF THE WEEK:

Meet Monkey

I'm a young dog with an enthusiasm for life. I love doing new things and meeting new people. Some of my favorite activities are running around the agility course and flipping a ball into the air. Of course, these things are more fun when I have someone to do them with. I'm learning my commands and I walk well on leash; although I'd rather be running. I'm a big dog in a little package. I'm looking for a family that will keep me busy and someone to take a nap with at the end of playtime.

Monkey is a small dog with a big passion for life. He will be happy being part of an active family with children that can play with him. His energy level may be too intense for very young children.

Responsible Pet Care of Oxford Hills is a no-kill, non-profit shelter and adoption center for cats and dogs; and the holding area for stray dogs for 12 towns in Oxford County. The shelter has moved to a new location at 95 Sallow Road in Paris.

Anyone interested in adopting a pet from RPC can visit the shelter Tuesday-Sunday 12-4 p.m. Most of the adoptable pets and the adoption application can be found online on the shelter's website at www.rpc.petfinder.com.

For answers to questions about adopting or fostering a pet, or to make an inquiry about a lost animal, call Responsible Pet Care after noon at 743-8679.

Now is the time to start thinking of protecting your pet from LYME DISEASE

The best protection against lyme disease is prevention. Give your pet a flea and tick preventative, which can help ensure that an infected tick that attaches itself, dies before transmitting the disease to your pet. The CDC is indicating that we can expect an increase in lyme disease this year.

Obituaries

EDWARD SAMUEL CHAPMAN

Edward Samuel Chapman, 60, of Bethel died unexpectedly at his home that he shared with his fiancée Kathy Berberian on Elm St. Sunday, June 30.

Better known as "Sammy," he was born on Oct. 14, 1952 in Rumford, to the proud parents Frank and Ida Chapman.

Sammy was pre-deceased by both parents as well as his beloved nephew Vince Chapman. His surviving family members include his two children Hannah Chapman, 24, of Bethel and Brady Chapman, 26, of Bethel; his fiancée, Kathy Berberian of Bethel; as well as all of his six siblings.

Siblings include Betsy Ellis and her husband Jerry of Neece, S.C., Alan Chapman and his wife Louise of Greenwood, Tony Chapman and his wife Amy of Locke Mills, Howard Chapman and his wife Macky of Bethel, Kathryn Cimato and her husband John of Fort Myers, Fla., and Mary Ellen Chapman of Bethel.

Sammy had an interesting life to say the least. He truly was a multifaceted individual with many talents and abilities. Throughout his life he worked in the woods, climbed trees, and ran restaurants, but his true calling was always his music.

He started playing the ukulele at age six and soon moved on to the guitar. He eventually became skilled on several other instruments including the piano, harmonica, and the electric bass. Aside from having an exceptional musical ear he consistently nurtured his talent until the day he died, composing approximately 70 songs and recording about half of them. He was well known for his songwriting capabilities, and it has been said by many fellow musicians that it was one of his best creative attributes.

Covering many genres, he was also known in small circles for his beloved kids' songs which he wrote for his children, nieces, nephews, and other young people. He had a wonderful way with kids and could always make them laugh, often time giving them silly nicknames. They loved him as much as he loved them.

Over the years Sammy played in many bands, starting in his youth and continuing into his 50s. It would be difficult to name them all but some include "The Convicts," "Running Smooth," "The Sammy Chapman Band," "The Chapman York Farar Trio," "The No Tee-shirt Band," and "Gold Fever," which was a 1950s show band that toured the country playing venues as big as the MGM Grand in Reno, Nev.

One of his signature acts in Gold Fever was performing as a Hank Williams impersonator wearing a white suit and cowboy hat, and singing and playing Hank Williams tunes on acoustic guitar. He had a successful career on the road but would eventually return to Bethel where he met his future wife Sarah Shepley, the mother of his two children.

In Sammy's later years, aside from being fully devoted to raising his two children, he enjoyed playing golf. He was a well known golfer at the Bethel Inn Resort and was loved by many. He was known not only for his unique character but also for his competitive prowess. He prided himself on being "pretty good for a logger." He also played a great deal of golf on Chapman Hill, a course that his father Frank built around 50 years ago. That is where he taught his children the game and engaged in many family golf events along with his father, siblings, family friends, as well as many local residents.

For a "rockstar" Sammy was a very family oriented man. Of all his great accomplishments it could easily be said that his greatest was being the type of father that he was. He had an exceptionally close and loving relationship with both children and they could not be more proud to have called him "dad." The three of them lived together for several years, and it is arguable that more laughter has never been shared by a father and his children. His legacy will surely live on with them.

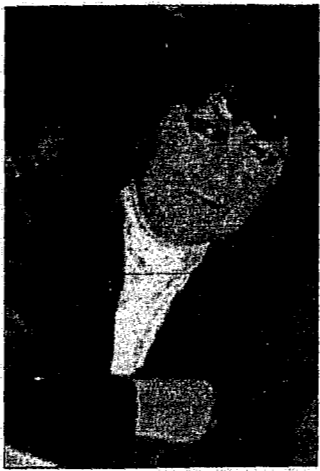

In 2011 Sammy was lucky enough to meet a wonderful woman named Kathy who became the love of his life. After asking her to marry him, they became engaged and shared happiness, love, and laughter for his remaining years.

Sammy will be deeply missed by his friends, family, and a great many others whose lives he touched. There is simply no measure for this man and what he brought to this world and the people that loved him.

There will be a Celebration Of Life held for him Sunday, July 21 at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. There is no invitation needed. It will start at 2 p.m. when people will be able to get up and say a few words.

On behalf of Sammy's life we want to encourage everyone to partake whether it is giving condolences, sharing memories, funny stories, or simply telling of a way in which he touched their life. After that there will be live music and plenty of food, drinks, and great people. Basically, the kind of party he would have liked. Hope to see you all there.

CANDACE L. HOWARD

Candace Louise (Smith) Howard, 62, of Albany Township died Sunday, June 30, 2013 after a short battle with cancer at the Market Square Center. She was the wife of the late Peter Howard Sr. who died in June 20, 1997.

She was born on March 26, 1951 in Norway Maine a daughter of the late Gardner & Helen (Trimback) Smith. She attended local area schools spending three years at Gould Academy before graduating from Telstar Regional High School.

Candace loved to watch NASCAR, rooting on her favorite driver Jimmie Johnson. She also enjoyed crossword puzzles, watching TV, "Spirit" her dog, hunting and fishing as well as being on the computer and cooking. However her favorite times were the ones she shared with family and friends.

She is survived by her daughter Lorie White and her husband Rodney and her son Peter Howard and his fiancée Jessi Smith. She also leaves three granddaughters Kristilee and Karen White, Shawna Howard-Berube and two step granddaughters Harlowe and Ashlin all from Albany Township as well as her close cousin Penny Allen and good friends Mabel and Frank Buiniskas.

At Candace's request, there will be no services; she wanted a big get together. So relatives and friends are invited to attend that get together on July 27, 2013 from 1-4 p.m. at the home of her daughter Lorie White at 38 Andrews Road, Albany Twp.

Arrangements are under the care of Advantage Funeral Services, 981 Forest Ave., Portland. Please visit www.advantageportland.com to sign Candace's guestbook and express your condolences to the family.

In lieu of flowers please bring a favorite childhood book to the gathering or donate a book to an organization, as Candace always wanted to encourage children to read. She believed in reading as a very important start in the life of learning.
